

Adam Gibson is a graduate and Certified Master Trainer through Tarheel Canine (Formerly Northstate Academy). He started his company Top Dog Texas LLC. in 2005 and in that time has trained a great variety of different dogs and programs including Police K9's, trick dog classes, nose work detection classes, service dogs for many different disabilities, and of course countless pet dogs. He currently stays very busy training Diabetic Alert Dogs for Type 1 Diabetics, but his training facility continues to offer various pet dog training programs.

In the last five years Adam's desire to help the next generation of dog trainers has taken him into some new directions, and he's had over one hundred students come through his various seminars, workshops, and shadow programs. It's because of this that Adam hopes to help the IACP continue to become an organization that fosters development of new and aspiring trainers.
