

Jason is a husband and a father of two, and has been helping dog owners with behavior problems for over 28 years. He knew from the age of 18 years old that training owners and their dogs would be the path that he would follow and make a career out of. Jason is best known for his large field dog socialization class which helps him rehabilitate hundreds of dogs a year. He has also been a professional member of the IACP for 12 years. Through the IACP he has been able to continue his education and obtain his CDT, CDTA, and PDTI. He has been a speaker at the annual IACP Conference twice and his writings on dog training have been published 3 times, two in the IACP Canine Professional Journal and one in Houston Pet Talk. Jason travels throughout the world teaching other dog trainers his methods on training and socializing dogs. Jason has been a volunteer at Bay Area Pet Adoptions a non-kill shelter in the bay area for 11 years where he teaches volunteers how to train and socialize the shelter dogs by holding two classes a week. Jason also enjoys competing with his border collies in sheep herding trails throughout the year.
